20 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

21 DISTRICT OF NEVADA

22 TODD VANDEHEY, an individual,

23 CASE NO.:

24 Plaintiff,

25 v.
 26 EMERGENCY MOTION FOR A 27 TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER 28 AND PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION

29 REAL SOCIAL DYNAMICS, INC., a Nevada
 30 corporation; NICHOLAS KHO, an individual;
 31 OWEN COOK, an individual,

32 Defendants.

33 Pursuant to Rule 65 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Local Rule 7-4, and NRS 34 38.222, plaintiff Todd VanDeHey (“Plaintiff”) brings this Emergency Motion for a Temporary 35 Restraining Order and Preliminary Injunction (“Emergency Motion”) and respectfully requests 36 the Court enter a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction:

37 1. requiring defendants Real Social Dynamics, Inc. (“RSD”), Nicholas Kho (“Kho”), 38 and Owen Cook (“Cook”) (collectively, “Defendants”) to immediately (a) restore to their August 10, 2017 status Plaintiff's and Valentine Life Inc.'s ("Valentine Life") other employees'/contractors' access to, and use of, the Social Media Accounts, Websites, Business Accounts (as those terms are defined below), email accounts and bank accounts and any of their underlying content, databases, customer lists, contact information and other data of them; (b) remit any and all Valentine Life funds that are in their possession or control to the account(s) from which they were taken; and (c) provide to Plaintiff any and all support tickets and other written and/or electronic communications, and/or written summaries of oral communications, relating to Valentine Life that Defendants have received from all customers, potential customers, vendors, employees/contractors and/or any other person or entity;

2. enjoining Defendants from: (a) interfering with the business of Valentine Life. This shall include, without limitation, restricting Plaintiff's and Valentine Life's other employees'/contractors' access to, and/or use of, or otherwise modifying, transferring, terminating and/or interfering with, the Social Media Accounts, Websites, Business Accounts, email accounts and bank accounts and any of their underlying content, databases, customer lists, contact information and other data of them; or (b) effectively or statutorily dissolving, liquidating or otherwise terminating the business of Valentine Life, including without limitation, filing Certificates of Dissolution with respect to Valentine Life; and
3. empowering Plaintiff to continue to run the business in a manner that allows Valentine Life to continue its day-to-day operations and pay financial obligations as they become due.

A proposed order granting Plaintiff's Emergency Motion for a Temporary Restraining Order is attached hereto as Exhibit 1.

DECLARATION OF STEVEN L. PROCACCINI, ESQ.
IN SUPPORT OF EMERGENCY MOTION AND PURSUANT TO LOCAL RULE 7-4

I, STEVEN L. PROCACCINI, declare as follows:

1 1. I am of counsel to the Nissenbaum Law Group, LLC, co-counsel for Plaintiff in 2 the above-captioned litigation. My pro hac vice application is forthcoming. Pursuant to Local 3 Rule 7-4, this declaration is submitted in support of Plaintiff's Emergency Motion.

4 2. This declaration is made of my own personal knowledge except where stated on 5 information and belief, and as to those matters, I believe them to be true, and, if called as a 6 witness, I would competently testify thereto.

7 3. Nature of the Emergency: The Emergency Motion is sought to prevent 8 Defendants from disrupting and destroying the business operations of Valentine Life pending 9 alternative dispute resolution proceedings. Pursuant to Section 11.9 of their operating 10 agreement, Plaintiff and Defendants have agreed to enter into alternative dispute resolution 11 regarding their dispute over Valentine Life. ECF No. 1, ¶ 19, Exhibit B. However, prior to 12 agreeing to enter into alternative dispute resolution—in derogation of their legal obligations—13 Defendants engaged in the systematic disruption and destruction of Valentine Life as a business, 14 substantially and irreparably impairing Valentine Life's ability to operate. This Emergency 15 Motion is brought to restore the status quo ante of Valentine Life prior to Defendants' 16 unauthorized and ultra vires actions.

17 4. Office Addresses and Telephone Numbers: The office address and telephone 18 numbers of Plaintiff and all affected parties are as follows:

16 Valentine Life also communicates with its customers via the online email marketing 17 automation and reporting platform provided through the third-party Ontraport. Id., ¶ 15. In 18 addition, Valentine Life processes and receives payments through the online merchant services 19 systems provided by the third-party InChek. Id., ¶ 16.

20 As part of the ongoing business of Valentine Life, RSD contributed certain infrastructure 21 and resources to the entity and Plaintiff was responsible for running the day-to-day business of 22 the company. Id., ¶ 17. As part of that infrastructure, Valentine Life also utilized RSD email 23 accounts, Valentine Life email accounts and Valentine Life ZenDesk and Clickbank accounts to 24 facilitate customer service (Ontraport, InChek, the RSD email domains, the Valentine Life email 25 domains, ZenDesk and Clickbank are collectively referred to as the “Business Accounts”). Id., ¶ 26 18.

27 On or about August 11, 2017, Defendants unilaterally and without authorization began to 28 restrict Plaintiff’s access to, and use of, the Websites, Social Media Accounts and Business

1 Accounts. Id., ¶ 49. Between on or about August 11, 2017 and on or about August 16, 2017, 2 Defendants engaged in the systematic disruption and destruction of Valentine Life's business by 3 restricting Plaintiff's access to the Websites and Social Media Accounts; removing content and 4 products from the Websites and Social Media Accounts; and preventing the use of the Business 5 Accounts by Plaintiff and Valentine Life. Id., ¶ 50. In doing so, Defendants have altered the 6 Websites, Social Media Accounts and Business Accounts to the detriment of Valentine Life and 7 materially and substantially impaired Valentine Life's operation as an ongoing business. Id., ¶¶ 8 51-52.

9 In addition, Defendants absconded with, and converted, funds from Valentine Life's 10 Bank of America bank account, depleting the account. Once Plaintiff contacted Bank of 11 America and had the funds restored, Defendants unilaterally restricted Plaintiff's access to the 12 account. Id., ¶¶ 98-102. Without the funds that were held in its Bank of America bank account, 13 Valentine Life will be unable to meet its future and ongoing compensation obligations or pay its 14 debts. Id., ¶¶ 103-104.

15 Defendants have unilaterally impaired Valentine Life's ability to operate in 16 contravention of the Operating Agreement. Defendants' actions are preventing Valentine Life 17 from (a) advertising or promoting its business; (b) bringing in revenue; (c) meeting its ongoing 18 financial obligations; (d) paying innocent third-party creditors; and/or (e) providing services to 19 innocent third-parties who have already provided payment to Valentine Life for products and 20 services. Defendants' actions are not authorized by the Operating Agreement and constitute 21 ultra vires acts.

22 Under Section 11.9 of the Operating Agreement, the parties are required to submit [a]ny 23 controversy or claim arising out of or relating to [the Operating] Agreement" to mediation and if 24 mediation fails, to submit to arbitration. Pursuant to Section 11.9 of the Operating Agreement, 25 Plaintiff and Defendants have agreed to do so. Id., ¶ 115.

26 Plaintiff has demanded that Defendants restore the Social Media Accounts, Websites, 27 Business Accounts, email accounts and funds along with Plaintiff's access to those items on 28

1 numerous occasions. See Procaccini Decl., ¶ 5. Defendants have refused Plaintiff's demands.

2 Id., ¶ 6.

3 Accordingly, Plaintiff has filed the Emergency Motion to compel Defendants to 4 immediately restore Valentine Life's Social Media Accounts, Websites, Business Accounts, 5 email accounts and funds as well as Plaintiff's access to, and use of, those items and all 6 underlying content, databases, customer lists, contact information and other data of them, and to 7 preliminarily enjoin Defendants from interfering with the business of Valentine Life pending 8 alternative dispute resolution.

9 In sum, this Emergency Motion seeks to compel Defendants to return the operation of 10 Valentine Life to the status quo prior to Defendants' ultra vires acts.

11 II. LEGAL ARGUMENT

12 A. The Court is Authorized to Provide a Provisional Remedy in the Form of A 13 Temporary Restraining Order and Preliminary Injunction to Protect the 14 Effectiveness of the Arbitral Proceeding.

15 Pursuant to NRS 38.222, “[b]efore an arbitrator is appointed and is authorized and able 16 to act, the court, upon motion of a party to an arbitral proceeding and for good cause shown, 17 may enter an order for provisional remedies to protect the effectiveness of the arbitral 18 proceeding to the same extent and under the same conditions as if the controversy were the 19 subject of a civil action.”

20 An application for injunctive relief is an appropriate vehicle to trigger the provisions of 21 NRS 38.222. See City of Reno v. IAFF, Local 731, 130 Nev. Adv. Op. 100 (2014). Indeed, as set 22 forth below, many states that have adopted the Uniform Arbitration Act (“Act”), upon which the 23 Nevada Uniform Arbitration Act of 2000 is based, have found that the issuance of a temporary 24 restraining order and/or preliminary injunction is an appropriate remedy under the Act.

25 In Salvucci v. Sheehan, 212 N.E.2d 243 (Mass. 1965), the court allowed the issuance of a 26 temporary restraining order to prevent the defendant from conveying or encumbering property 27 that was the subject of a pending arbitration. See also Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, 28 Inc. v. District Court, 672 P.2d 1015 (Colo. 1983) (holding that the district court had authority to grant preliminary injunctive relief to preserve status quo pending outcome of arbitration). In

1 addition, federal courts have also allowed temporary restraining orders under the Act. See 2 Merrill Lynch v. Salvano, 999 F.2d 211 (7th Cir. 1993) (allowing temporary restraining order to 3 prevent employees from soliciting clients or disclosing client information in anticipation of 4 securities arbitration.)

5 Therefore, the Court is authorized under the Act to enter a temporary restraining order 6 and preliminary injunction pursuant to NRS 38.222 “to protect the effectiveness of the arbitral 7 proceeding.” A temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction are necessary to protect 8 the assets and business of Valentine Life—the very entity subject to the agreed-upon alternative 9 dispute resolution proceeding(s)—which Defendants have systematically disrupted, hindered 10 and destroyed.

11 B. The Standard to Enter a Temporary Restraining Order and Preliminary 12 Injunction.

13 The standard for issuing a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction are the 14 same. See New Motor Vehicle Bd. Of Cal. V. Orrin W. Fox Co., 434 U.S. 1345, 1347 n.2 (1977).
 15 “To obtain a preliminary injunction, the moving party ‘must establish that: (1) it is likely to 16 succeed on the merits; (2) it is likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of preliminary 17 relief; (3) the balance of equities tips in its favor; and (4) an injunction is in the public interest.’” 18 Idaho v. Coeur d’Alene Tribe, 794 F.3d 1039, 1049 (9th Cir. 2015) (quoting Pom Wonderful 19 LLC v. Hubbard, 775 F.3d 1118, 1124 (9th Cir. 2014)).

20 It is critical to note that the injunctive relief sought by Plaintiff is not just to maintain the 21 status quo, it is to return to the status quo as of August 10, 2017; in other words, to the status 22 quo ante litem. This is completely appropriate relief for a situation such as this: one in which the 23 parties need the business to continue while a dispute over it is pending. See Tanner Motor 24 Livery, Ltd. v. Avis, Inc., 316 F.2d 804, 808 (9th Cir. 1963) (“[T]he usual function of a 25 preliminary injunction is to preserve the status quo ante litem pending a determination of the 26 action on the merits.”).

27 When a party seeks injunctive relief requiring affirmative action by the party enjoined, it 28 is a mandatory injunction. See Dahl v. HEM Pharmaceuticals Corp., 7 F.3d 1399, 1403 (9th Cir.

1 1993). The Court should grant a mandatory injunction when the facts and law clearly favor the 2 moving party. Id. Based on the above, it is clear that the law and facts favor Plaintiff and thus 3 the granting of the relief sought in the Emergency Motion for a temporary restraining order and 4 preliminary injunction.

5 As outlined above, Defendants have unilaterally engaged in the systematic disruption 6 and destruction of Valentine Life and have impeded Plaintiff's ability to operate Valentine Life.
7 Defendants' actions are not only to the detriment of Valentine Life's shareholders, but also to 8 Valentine Life's customers and creditors. Those customers and creditors are innocent third 9 parties who will suffer if Valentine Life is unable to operate its business.

10 Accordingly, Plaintiff merely seeks to restore the status quo ante pending mediation and 11 arbitration. Such relief is minimal and clearly within the bounds of law and power of the Court.

12 Moreover, Plaintiff will suffer irreparable harm to the brand, reputation and goodwill he 13 has created in Valentine Life—the business of which he is the public face, sole director, 14 manager and fifty percent (50%) shareowner—if Valentine Life is unable to operate.

15 In addition, the balance of the equities of imposing the injunction clearly weigh in favor 16 of Plaintiff. Should the Court grant the Emergency Motion and the relief sought in the Verified 17 Complaint, the Defendants will only be required to return Valentine Life to its prior operational 18 status. Simply put, Defendants will be in the same place they were before they unilaterally 19 engaged in ultra vires acts which have desecrated Valentine Life's business.

20 Finally, the injunction is in the public interest because if Valentine Life is able to 21 continue to operate as a business, it will be able to serve innocent third parties who have been 22 damaged by Defendants' ultra vires acts. Those third-parties include Valentine Life's customers 23 who have already purchased products and services and who are currently unable to benefit from 24 their purchases, as well as Valentine Life's creditors who are currently unable to be paid because 25 of Defendants' continual absconding with, and conversion of, Valentine Life's funds.

26 For the foregoing reasons, Plaintiff requests the Court grant the relief sought in the 27 Emergency Motion.

28 . . .

1 C. Plaintiff Has a Likelihood of Succeeding on the Merits of the Emergency 2 Motion and Verified Complaint.

3 As stated above, the purpose of an injunction is to preserve the status quo ante litem.
 4 Tanner Motor Livery, Ltd., supra, at 808. This is exactly the relief Plaintiff is seeking in the 5 Emergency Motion. Plaintiff merely requests that Defendants return the Websites, Social Media 6 Accounts, Business Accounts and Valentine Life's funds to the status they were at prior to 7 Defendants' ultra vires acts. It would not impose a burden for Defendants to restore content to 8 the Websites and Social Media Accounts and Plaintiff's access to, and use of, those accounts 9 along with the Business Accounts.

10 Moreover, Plaintiff has a likelihood of success in obtaining the relief it seeks in the 11 Verified Complaint for a provisional remedy pursuant to NRS 38.222.

12 Plaintiff has attempted to resolve this matter without judicial intervention, but 13 Defendants have refused to restore the Social Media Accounts, Websites, Business accounts or 14 funds, along with Plaintiff's access thereto. See Procaccini Decl., ¶¶ 5-6. Thus, Plaintiff is left 15 with little choice but to petition the Court for a provisional remedy in the form of a temporary 16 restraining order and preliminary injunction in order to "protect the effectiveness of the arbitral 17 proceeding." NRS 38.222.

18 As demonstrated above, jurisdictions throughout the country that have adopted the Act 19 have found a temporary restraining order and/or preliminary injunction to be appropriate relief 20 under the "Provisional Remedies" section of the Act. Therefore, Plaintiff has a high likelihood 21 of success on the merits of receiving a provisional remedy.

22 D. Plaintiff, Valentine Life and Innocent Third-Parties are Likely to Suffer 23 Irreparable Harm Without the Emergency Relief Sought.

24 The Ninth Circuit has recognized that damage to reputation, advertising efforts and 25 goodwill qualify as irreparable harm. Rent-A-Ctr., Inc. v. Canyon Television & Appliance
 26 Rental, Inc., 944 F.2d 597, 603 (9th Cir. 1991); see also American Trucking Associations, Inc. v.
 27 City of Los Angeles, 559 F.3d 1046, 1057 (9th Cir. 2009). Here, Plaintiff will suffer irreparable 28 harm if Defendants are not compelled to restore the Websites, Social Media Accounts and

1 Business Accounts. Without restoration of those accounts, Valentine Life cannot operate. In 2 addition, if Plaintiff's access to the Websites, Social Media Accounts and Business Accounts are 3 not restored, he cannot advertise or promote Valentine Life's products or services nor maintain 4 the brand, reputation and goodwill of Valentine Life, or that he himself has built as the public
5 face of Valentine Life. ECF 1 ¶ 12. Moreover, some of Valentine Life's products and services 6 are accompanied by a guaranteed refund period, which Plaintiff has not been able to honor since 7 Defendants' improper takeover of the company.

8 The Websites and Social Media Accounts are the essential assets of Valentine Life; they 9 establish the brand in its primary marketplace. They constitute not only the goodwill of the 10 company, but they are the sine qua non to the continued operation of the company at all. In 11 essence, by removing the Websites and Social Media Accounts from the public domain, the 12 Defendants' wrongful actions have essentially placed an "Out of Business" sign on Valentine 13 Life's door.

14 In addition, Defendants' actions have substantially impaired the business operations of 15 Valentine Life, causing irreparable harm to Plaintiff as the sole director, manager and fifty 16 percent (50%) shareowner of Valentine Life. If Valentine Life is unable to continue to operate, it 17 is more than likely that Defendants' actions will cause Valentine Life to go out of business, 18 which would in turn cause Plaintiff to suffer irreparable harm in the loss of his business and 19 injury to innocent third parties who have paid for its ongoing services.

20 For example, as stated in the Verified Complaint, "Defendants unilaterally announced 21 the cancellation of the Valentine Life program 'Immersion' which was imminently scheduled to 22 take place in Amsterdam. Plaintiff was at all times ready, willing and able to proceed with the 23 'Immersion' program and only learned that it was being cancelled by reading an online forum 24 that referenced the fact that Defendants had done so. To say the least, the Defendants had no 25 authority to cancel 'Immersion', and by doing so, they further degraded the value of Valentine 26 Life's goodwill and brand." ECF No. 1, ¶¶ 63-64.

27 Another example is that "Defendants' actions prevented Plaintiff from providing scheduled 28 updates to the Social Media Accounts in furtherance of Valentine Life's business. Without

1 regular updates to Valentine Life's Social Media Accounts, Valentine Life's Internet metrics
 2 will be lowered; therefore, devaluing Valentine Life's primary asset." Id., ¶¶ 81-82.

3 Moreover, Defendants' actions in destroying Valentine Life's business operations are in 4 direct contravention of Section 6.4(b) of the Operating Agreement which expressly prohibits 5 RSD from "[v]oluntarily caus[ing] the dissolution of the Company [Valentine Life]." Indeed, 6 Defendant Kho has admitted in an Internet posting that Valentine Life is being dissolved, stating 7 "Todd's business with Real Social Dynamics was dissolved due to a difference in vision with 8 how Todd wanted to do business with Real Social Dynamics." Id., ¶ 96 (emphasis added).

9 Moreover, the uncertainty that Defendants have created respecting the continued 10 availability of Valentine Life's products and services has led to consumers pirating Valentine 11 Life's content. Id., ¶¶ 72-73. Indeed, one Reddit user posted a thread entitled "Heads up, Real 12 Social Dynamics has kicked out RSD Todd [Plaintiff]. If you own any RSD Todd product 13 logins, DOWNLOAD all the content as those sites may go down." Id., ¶ 73(a), Exhibit G 14 (emphasis added). Thus, Defendants' actions are likely to reduce the demand for Valentine 15 Life's paid content.

16 Plaintiff and Valentine Life will suffer irreparable harm if they are unable to continue to 17 market and sell their products and services due to the market being saturated with pirated 18 content. Clearly, the destruction and loss of Plaintiff's business constitutes irreparable harm. See 19 American Trucking Associations, Inc., 559 F.3d at 1058.

20 Likewise, as stated above, innocent third parties will suffer if Plaintiff's relief is not 21 granted. Without access to the Websites, Social Media Accounts, Business Accounts or 22 Valentine Life's bank accounts, and the content, databases, contact information and data 23 underlying those accounts, Plaintiff is unable to (a) process payments for products or move 24 revenue from the purchase of products into its bank accounts; (b) contact customers about 25 upcoming classes and seminars; (c) promote new content and products; (d) respond to 26 customer's inquiries about products and services already purchased; (e) provide customers with 27 products and services already purchased; (f) meet Valentine Life's ongoing financial 28 obligations; and (g) pay Valentine Life's creditors.

1 For example, it is axiomatic that under the wage and hour laws, employees who work for 2 a company must be paid; if they are not, both the company and the individual principals and 3 shareholders can be the subject of administrative and legal remedies. New York Business 4 Corporation Law § 630. Currently, Valentine Life has seven employees/contractors. Valentine 5 Life cannot meet its compensation obligations in New York State when all the money in the 6 company's accounts has been wrongfully restricted by a Nevada corporation, out of control of 7 the individual owner and manager Plaintiff who handles payment remittance in New York.

8 Undoubtedly, Plaintiff, Valentine Life and innocent third parties will suffer irreparable 9 harm if Defendants are not compelled to restore the status quo. Plaintiff's Emergency Motion 10 should therefore be granted.

11 E. The Balance of the Equities Weighs Clearly in Favor of Plaintiff.

12 “To determine which way the balance of the hardships tips, a court must identify the 13 possible harm caused by the preliminary injunction against the possibility of the harm caused by 14 not issuing it.” Univ. of Haw. Prof'l Assembly v. Cayetano, 183 F.3d 1096, 1108 (9th Cir.
 15 1999).

16 If Plaintiff's requested emergency relief is not granted, Valentine Life will be unable to 17 operate while the parties attempt to resolve their dispute. In such event, its value will be 18 depleted, or destroyed, thus rendering the alternative dispute resolution the parties have agreed 19 to regarding Valentine Life moot.

20 In addition, should the Emergency Motion be granted, Plaintiff and Valentine Life will 21 be able to resume providing customer service to third-parties who have already purchased 22 Valentine Life's products and services.

23 Moreover, if the Emergency Motion is granted and Defendants are required to restore the 24 Social Media Accounts, Websites and Business Accounts along with Plaintiff's access to, and 25 use of, same, they will not suffer. Indeed, they would benefit as Defendant RSD owns fifty-26 percent (50%) of the shares of Valentine Life. Thus, if Valentine Life again becomes profitable, 27 it benefits not only Plaintiff but also Defendants. It would not require great effort for Defendants 28 to restore access to the Social Media Accounts, Websites and Business Accounts and provide

1 Plaintiff access to those items again. In essence, Defendants merely need to “flip a switch” and 2 provide Plaintiff with, or restore his prior, login credentials. Then, Plaintiff could continue to 3 operate Valentine Life to the benefit of all parties.

4 Without the granting of the Emergency Motion, any alternative dispute resolution 5 process is pointless as Defendants have unilaterally impaired Valentine Life’s ability to operate, 6 substantially and irreparably devaluing the company. If Defendants’ actions are allowed to 7 continue, there will be nothing left for the parties to mediate/arbitrate. Clearly the balance of the 8 equities weighs in favor of Plaintiff.

9 F. The Public Interest Will be Served by the Issuance of the Requested Relief.

10 “When the reach of an injunction is narrow, limited only to the parties, and has no 11 impact on non-parties, the public interest will be ‘at most a neutral factor in the analysis rather 12 than one that favors granting or denying the preliminary injunction.’” Stormans, Inc. v. Selecky, 13 586 F.3d 1109, 1138-39 (9th Cir. 2009) (quoting Bernhardt v. Los Angeles Cty., 339 F.3d 920, 14 931 (9th Cir. 2003)).

15 Here, the requested injunctive relief is limited to the parties and thus the public interest 16 factor is neutral.

17 However, the injunction is in the public interest as entering the requested relief would 18 allow the continued operation of Valentine Life, a corporation that employees individuals, 19 provides services to consumers and generates tax revenue. Without the requested relief, 20 Defendants’ unilateral and ultra vires acts have caused Valentine Life from ceasing to contribute 21 to the public.

III. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, it is respectfully requested that the Court grant the relief requested herein, together with such other, further and different relief as the Court deems just, equitable and proper under the circumstances.
